

To Commemorate
The Twelfth Anniversary of the
FIRST NATIONAL BANK
 of Torrance

TWELVE years ago tomorrow morning, May 2, 1913, the First National Bank of Torrance opened its doors to the first depositor. The modern industrial city of Torrance was then little more than a dream about to come true. But in these twelve short years there has been builded a city of modern homes and mighty factories, of many stores and a bank with resources of OVER ONE MILLION DOLLARS.

From the first day the First National Bank began business it has been under the same management and ownership. The officers and directors of this bank have been identified with every worth-while movement for the development of Torrance. In fact, the files of our banking office and escrow department constitute a comprehensive chronicle of the growth and activities of Torrance from its inception by the late Jared Sidney Torrance to the present day. Mr. Torrance was one of the original directors of this bank.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF TORRANCE IS Fundamentally a TORRANCE INSTITUTION

*Every Officer, Employee, Director and Stockholder
 Is a Resident or Property Owner of Torrance*

On this anniversary day, the First National Bank of Torrance wishes to express its sincere gratitude for the loyal support of the people of Torrance and to dedicate itself anew to the welfare of this modern industrial city which we have learned to love.

James W. Post,
President.
